March Attendance

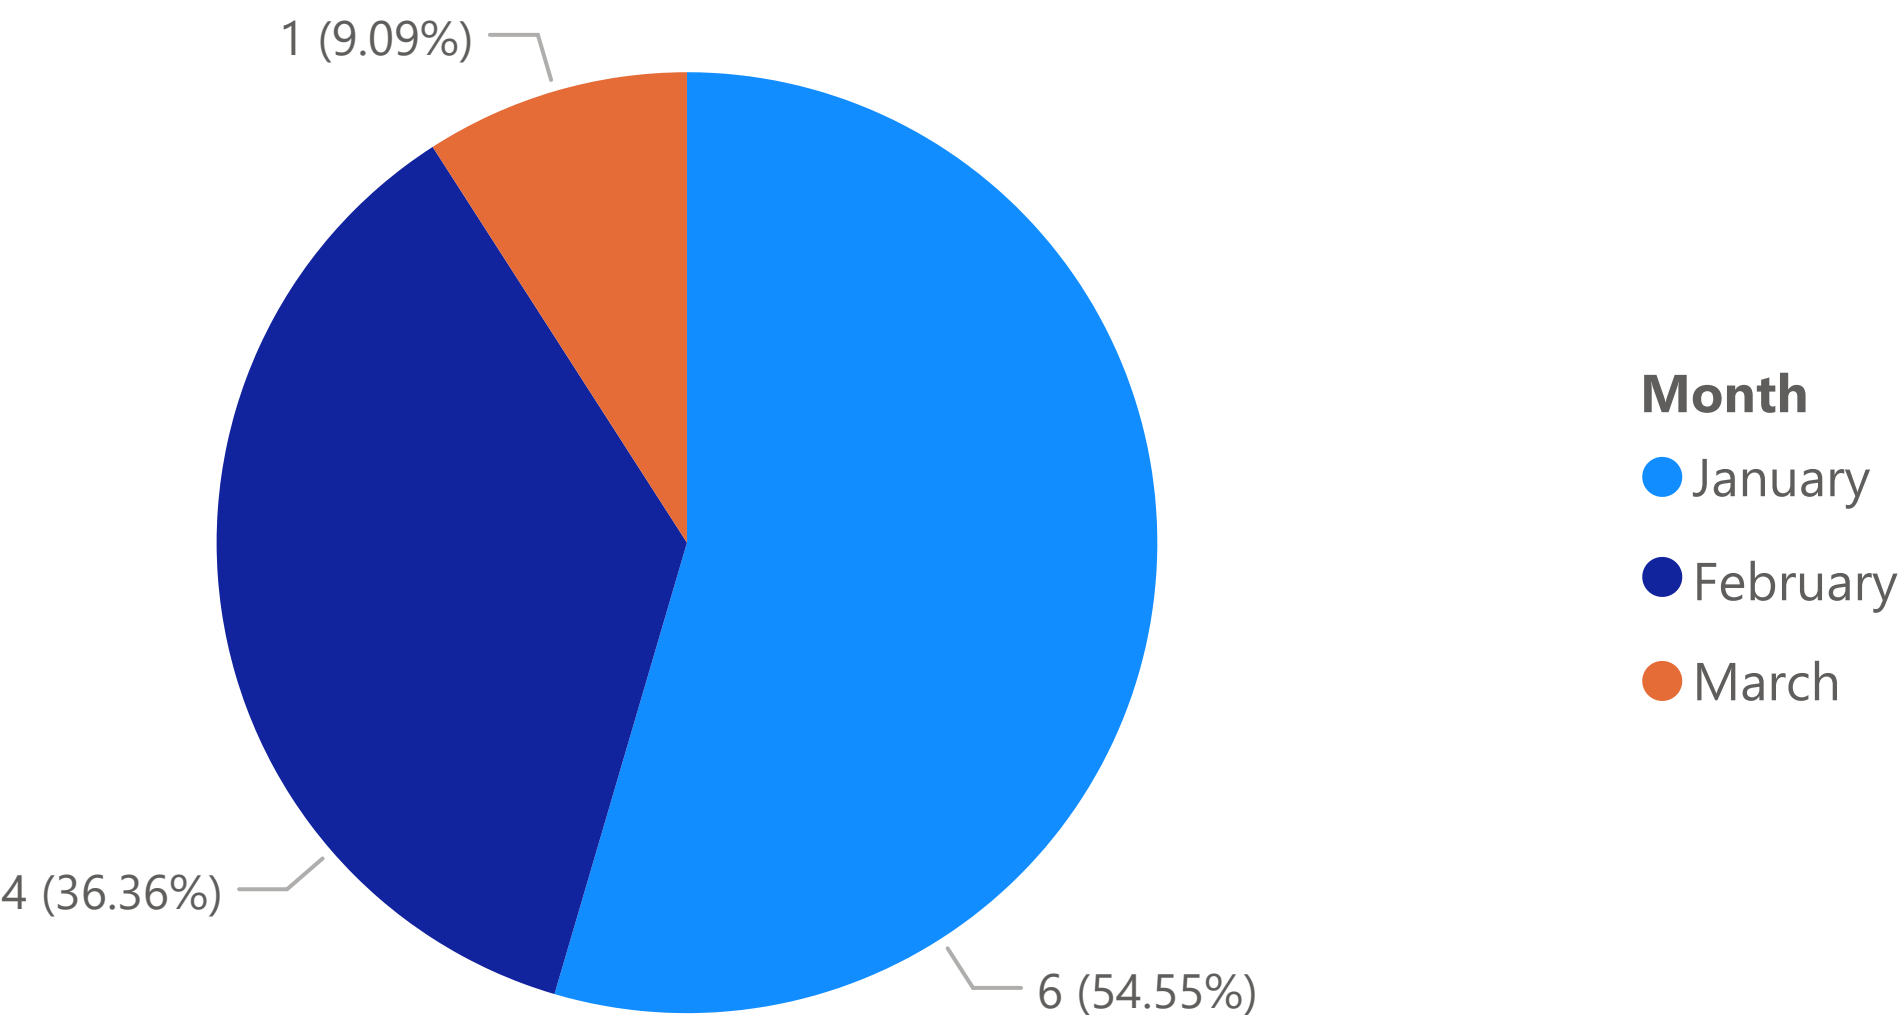

Monthly attendance increased from January to February, largely due to an increase in registrations in the U-13 group, which saw the total attendance increase from 14 to 19.

Attendance in other groups remained at the same levels month to month.

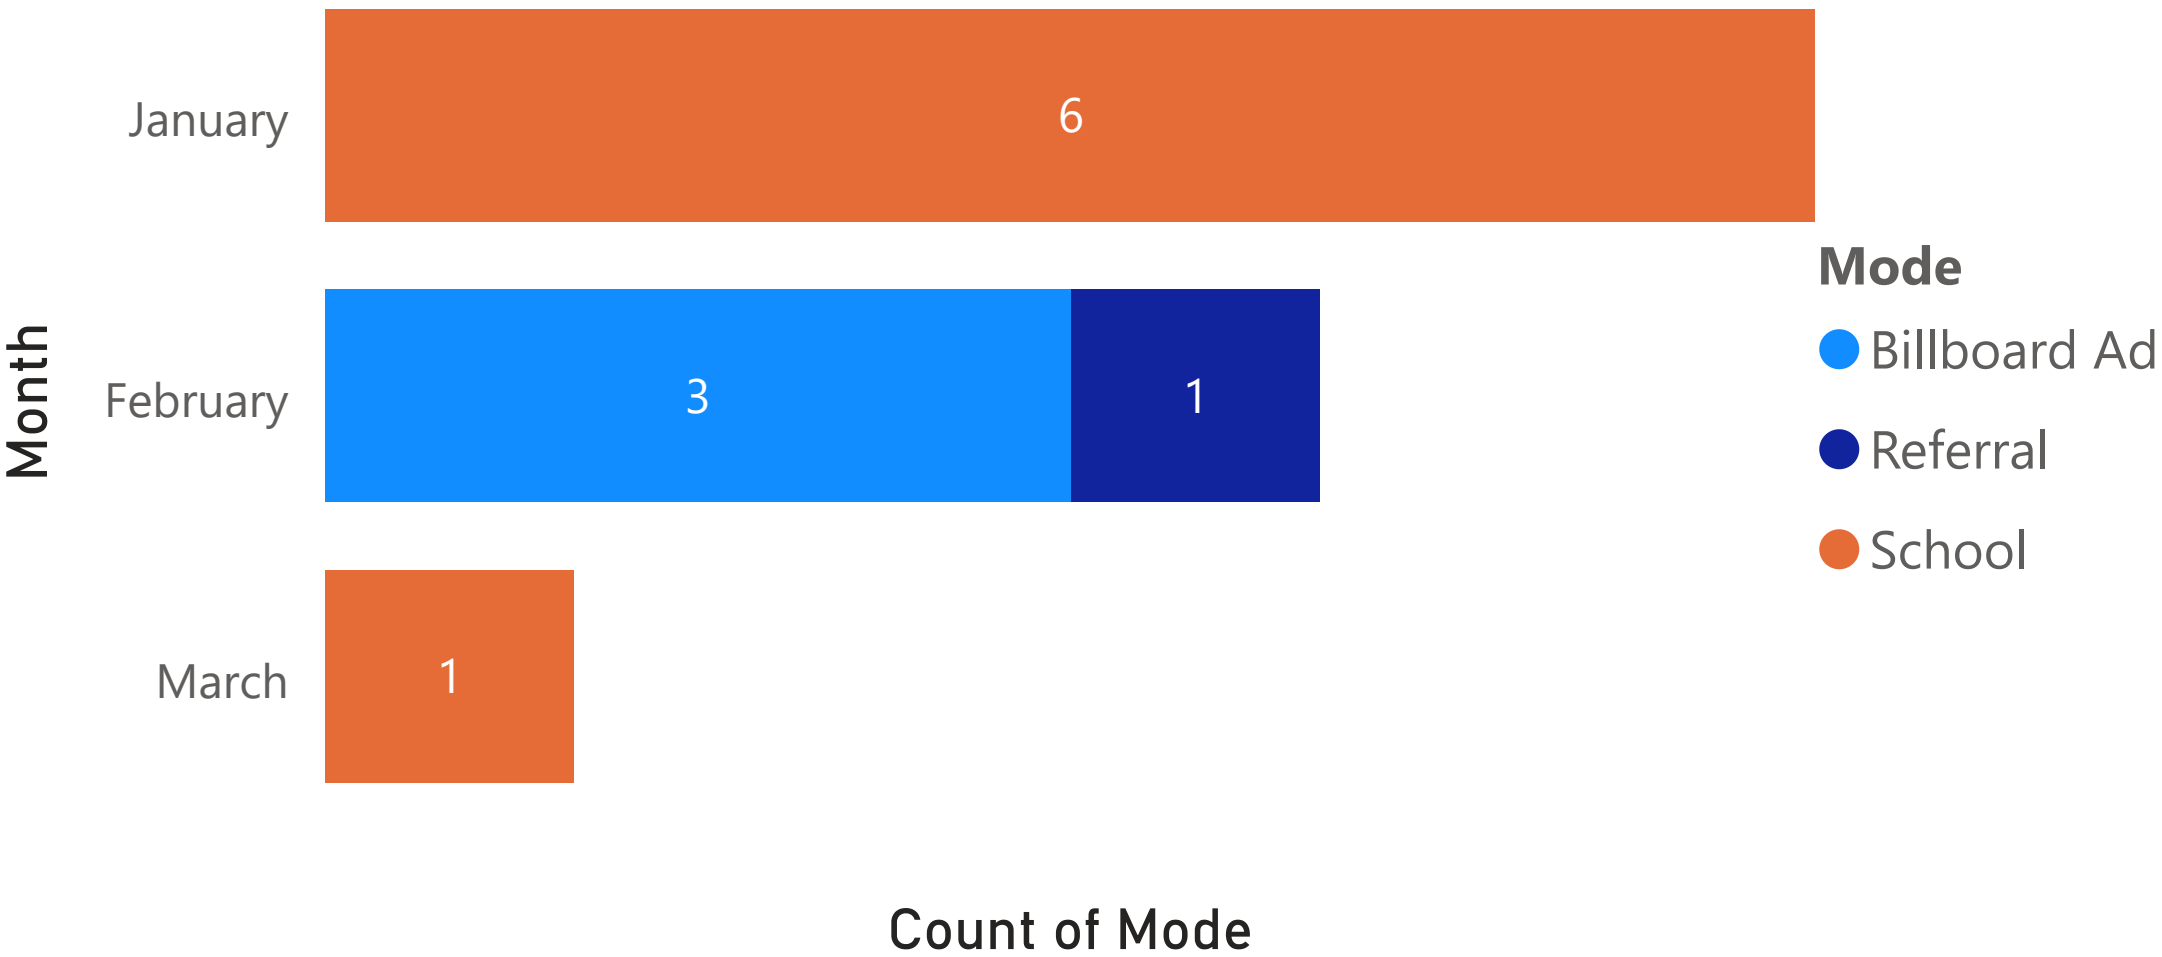

The month of February had the highest number of students/players participation in the afterschool football program, mainly attributed to the registrations from Non-NJA students referred and attracted by the Bill-Board.

Signings by School

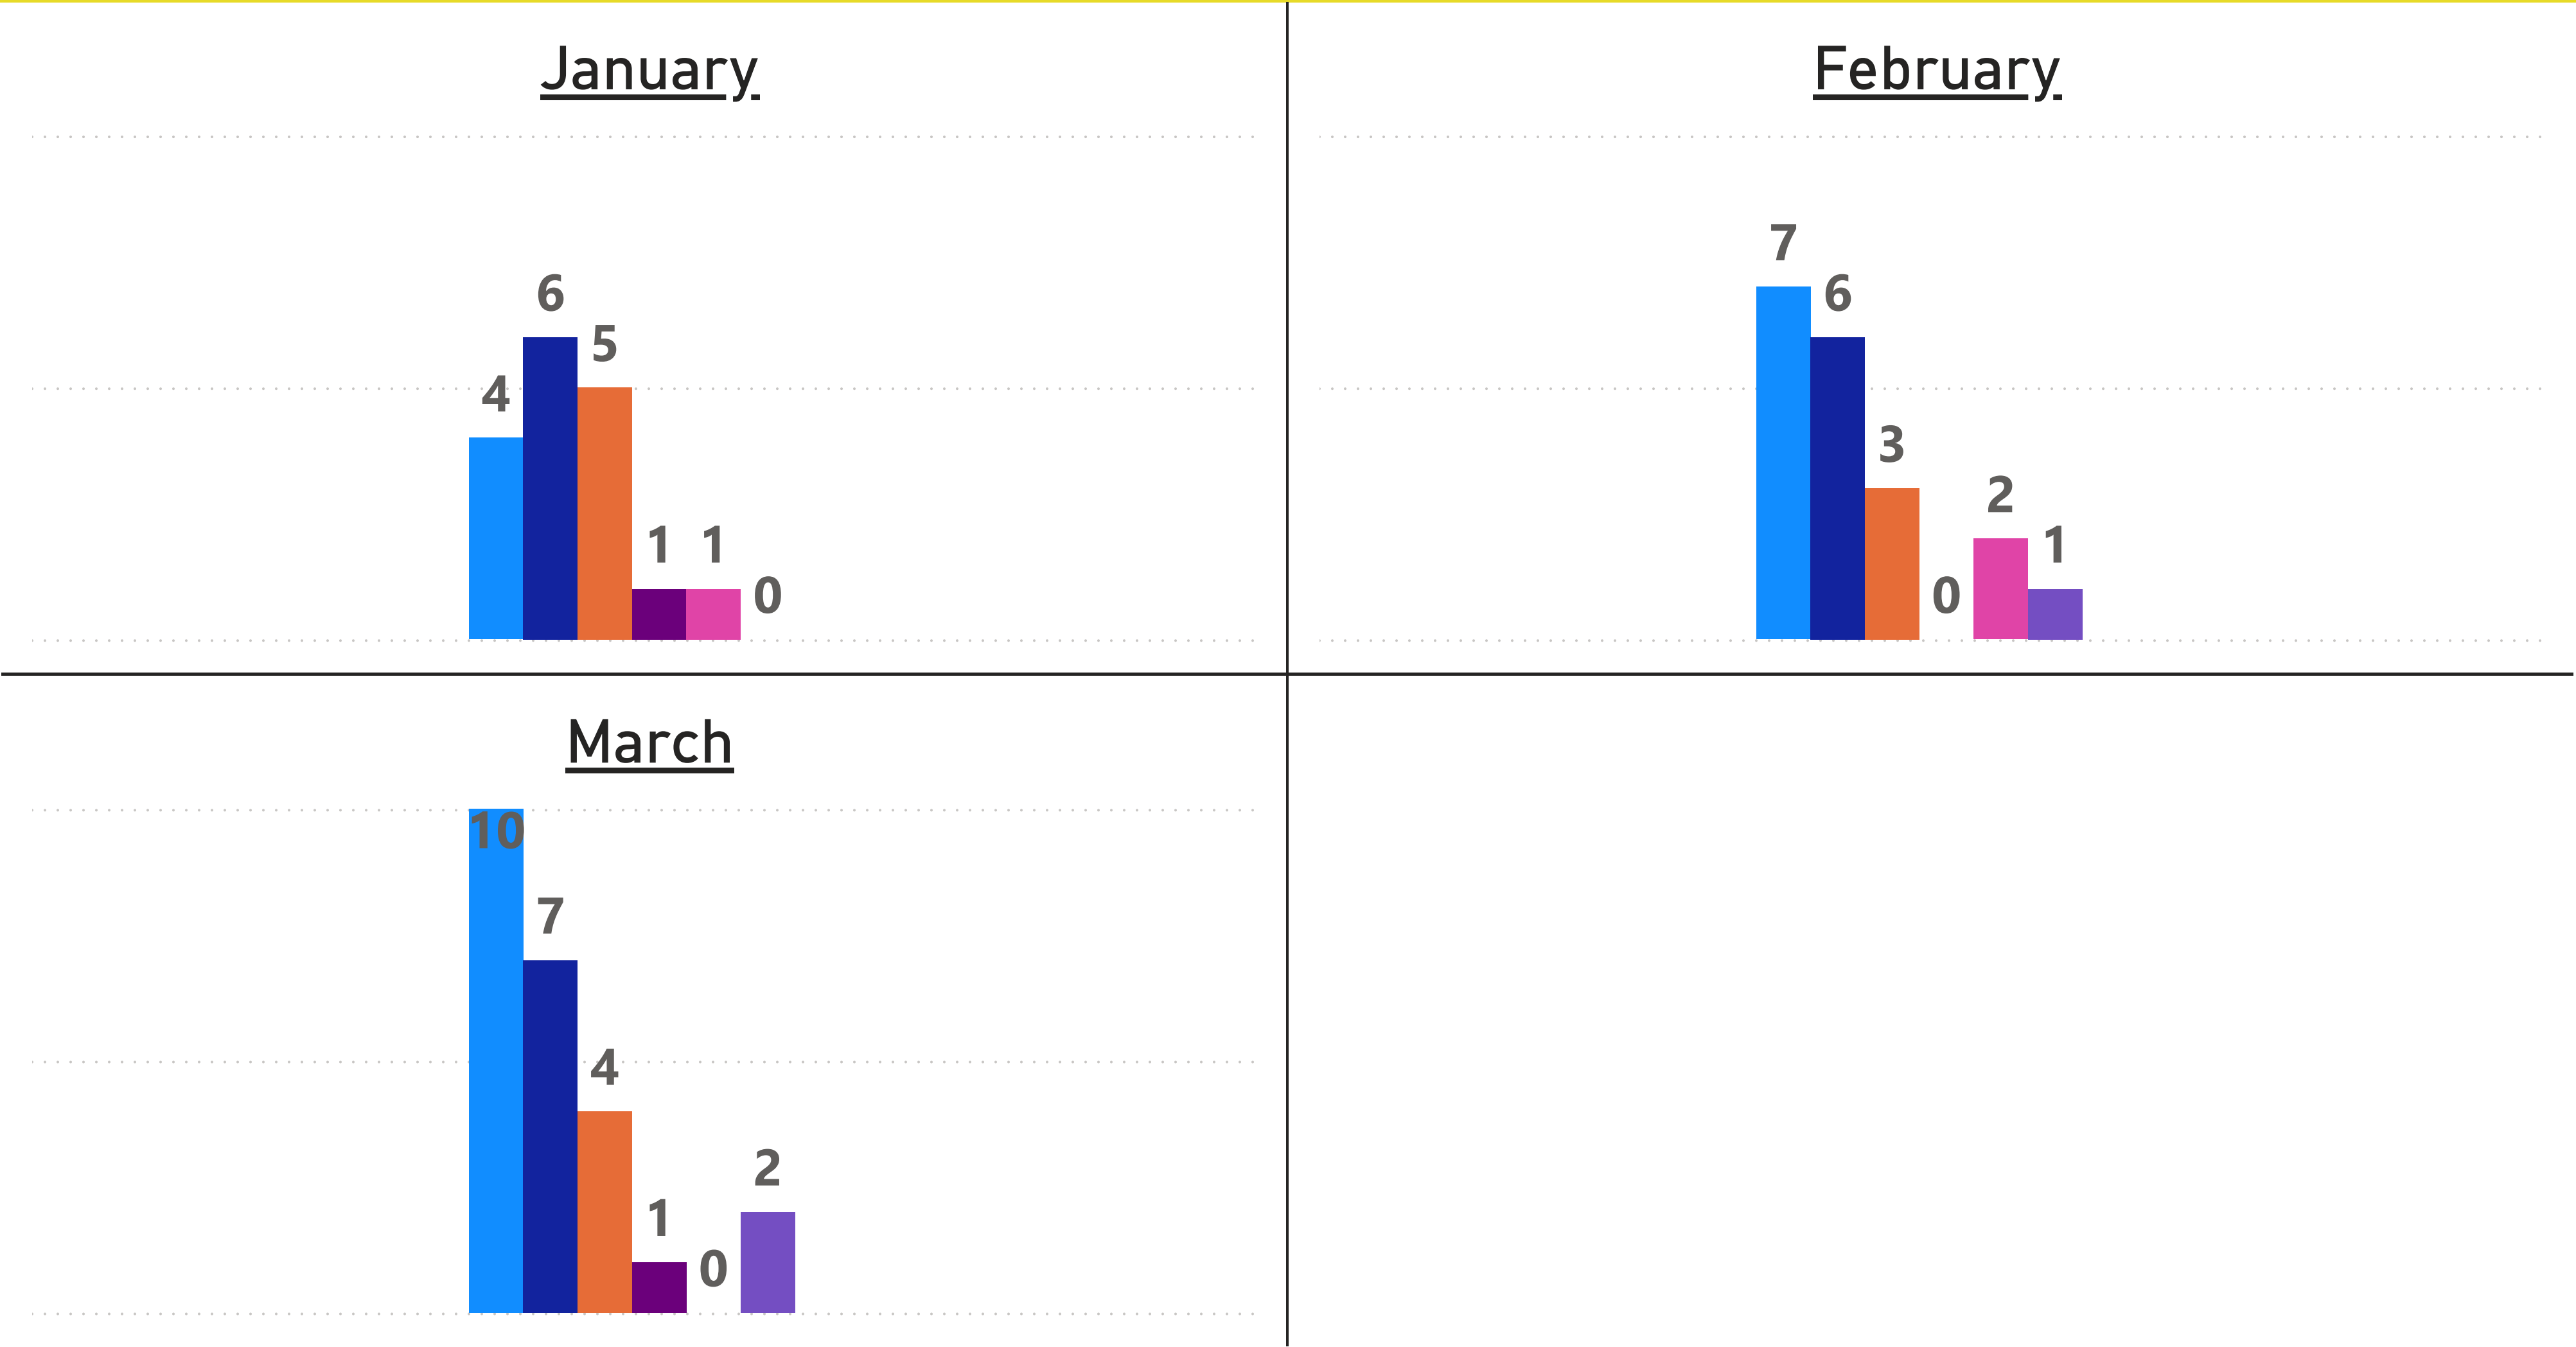

Of the new signings, students from the school formed the entirety of registrations in January, whereas in February, all registrations came from students in other schools, driven by the billboard ad.

The U-13 group had the most signings taking in 70% of all the new registrations.

The school continues to be the leading source of most signings of the afterschool football.

SUMMARY OF U- 7 ATTENDANCE

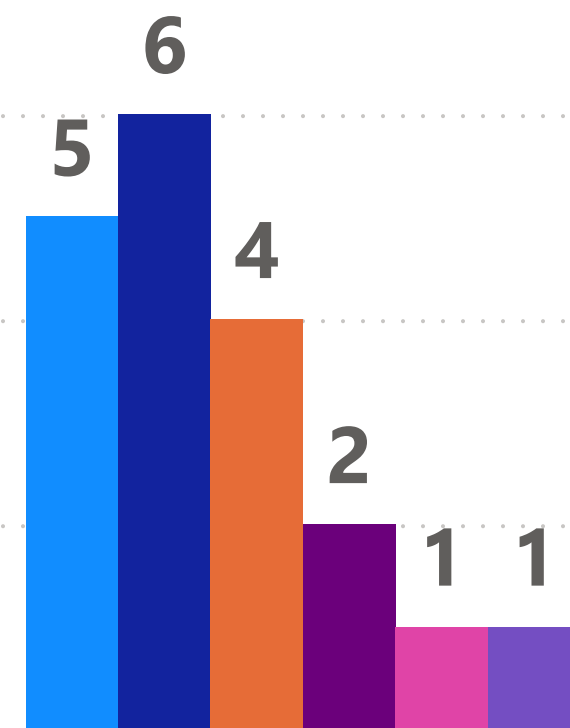

- No of Sessions
- Attendees
- Present in all
- New Players
- Absentees in <=2 Sessions
- Absentees in >2 Sessions

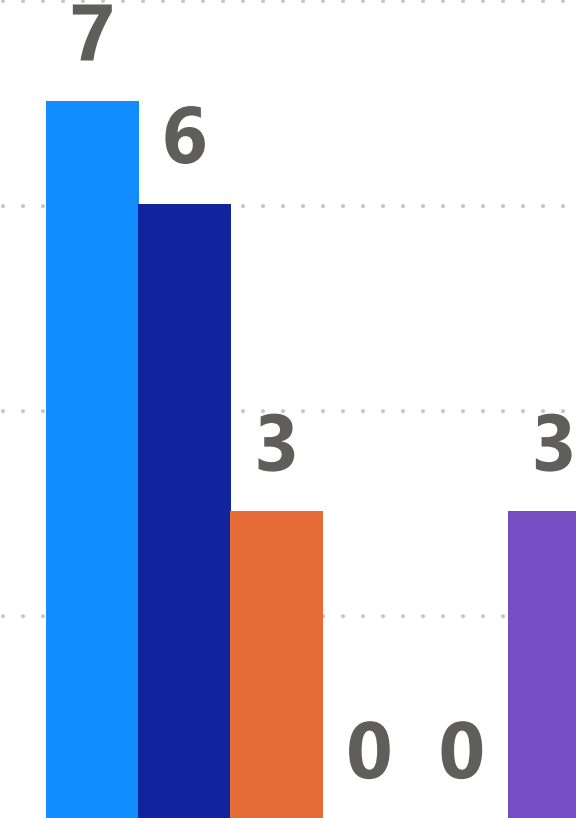

Despite having only 6-7 players, the turn out rate in this group has been very impressive. Since the start of the year, the group has consistently had on average more than half the group attend all the sessions. The highest turnout rate was seen in January with 5 out of the 6 expected players, attending all the 4 sessions done in the month. February recorded the lowest turnout, with half the group missing at least a session. It is a budding group that has shown increased passion over time, and generally enjoy playing with each other. By the end of March, 2 new players had joined this group, and the rest of the group have done a good job welcoming them to the team.

January.

February.

March

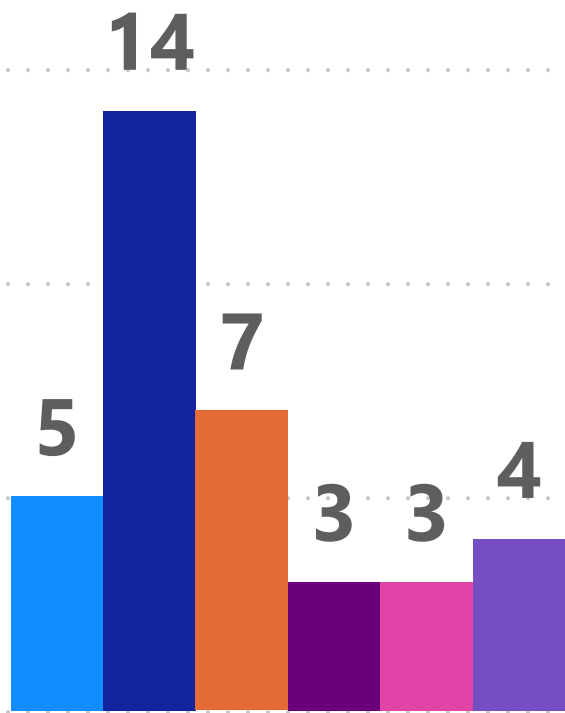

The group registered 2 new players at the start of the year in January, in a month which also saw it have it's highest turnout rate. All players in the group missed more than 2 sessions in March. Having combined sessions with the U7 group on Friday has been key to getting some pupils in this category to attend and have more structured training since the number of players present increases. Their Tuesday sessions have seen low turn-out rates to the point of having one session cancelled after having only one player available to train. More enrollment in this group will have a positive effect on attendance, as they get play in a larger group which increases the desire to play regularly with their peers as has been in the U7 and 13 groups. Throughout the term, the attendance remained the same, at 6 players.

March

The group took in most of the new registrations and was the only one that had signings in all the months. Four signings in February, and three in January saw the total attendees increase to 19 from 14 the previous month. The attendance rate in the group is very impressive, with more than half the expected students attending all the sessions in January and February. It is a group that is motivated by the desire to join the Elite program, including the Non-NJA players that want to transfer to the school to be a part of it. Due to the political demos on Mondays and Thursdays, it had 3 sessions cancelled in the month of March
